

First cold of the year. The eaves dripping where the rain had been.

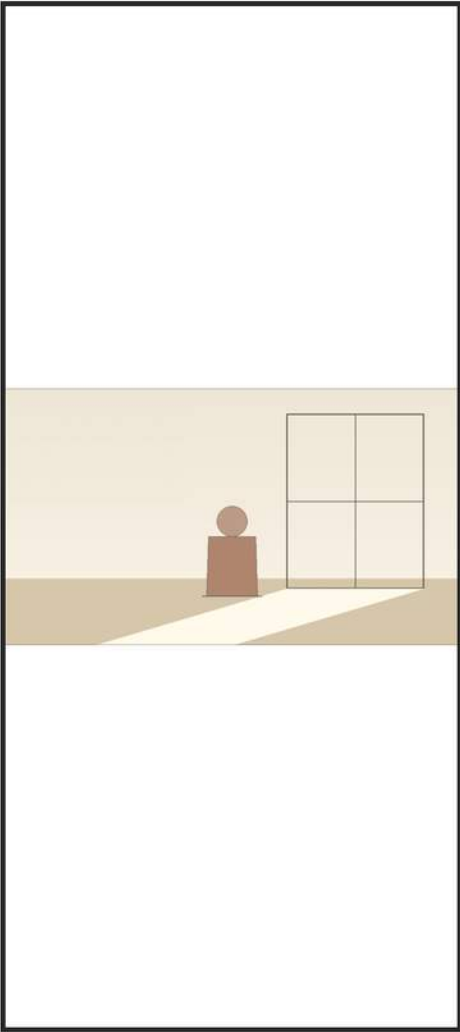

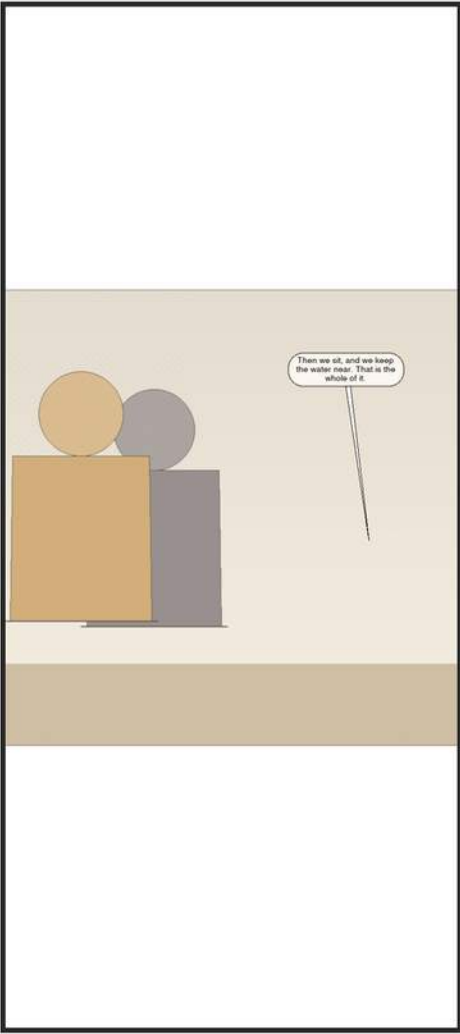

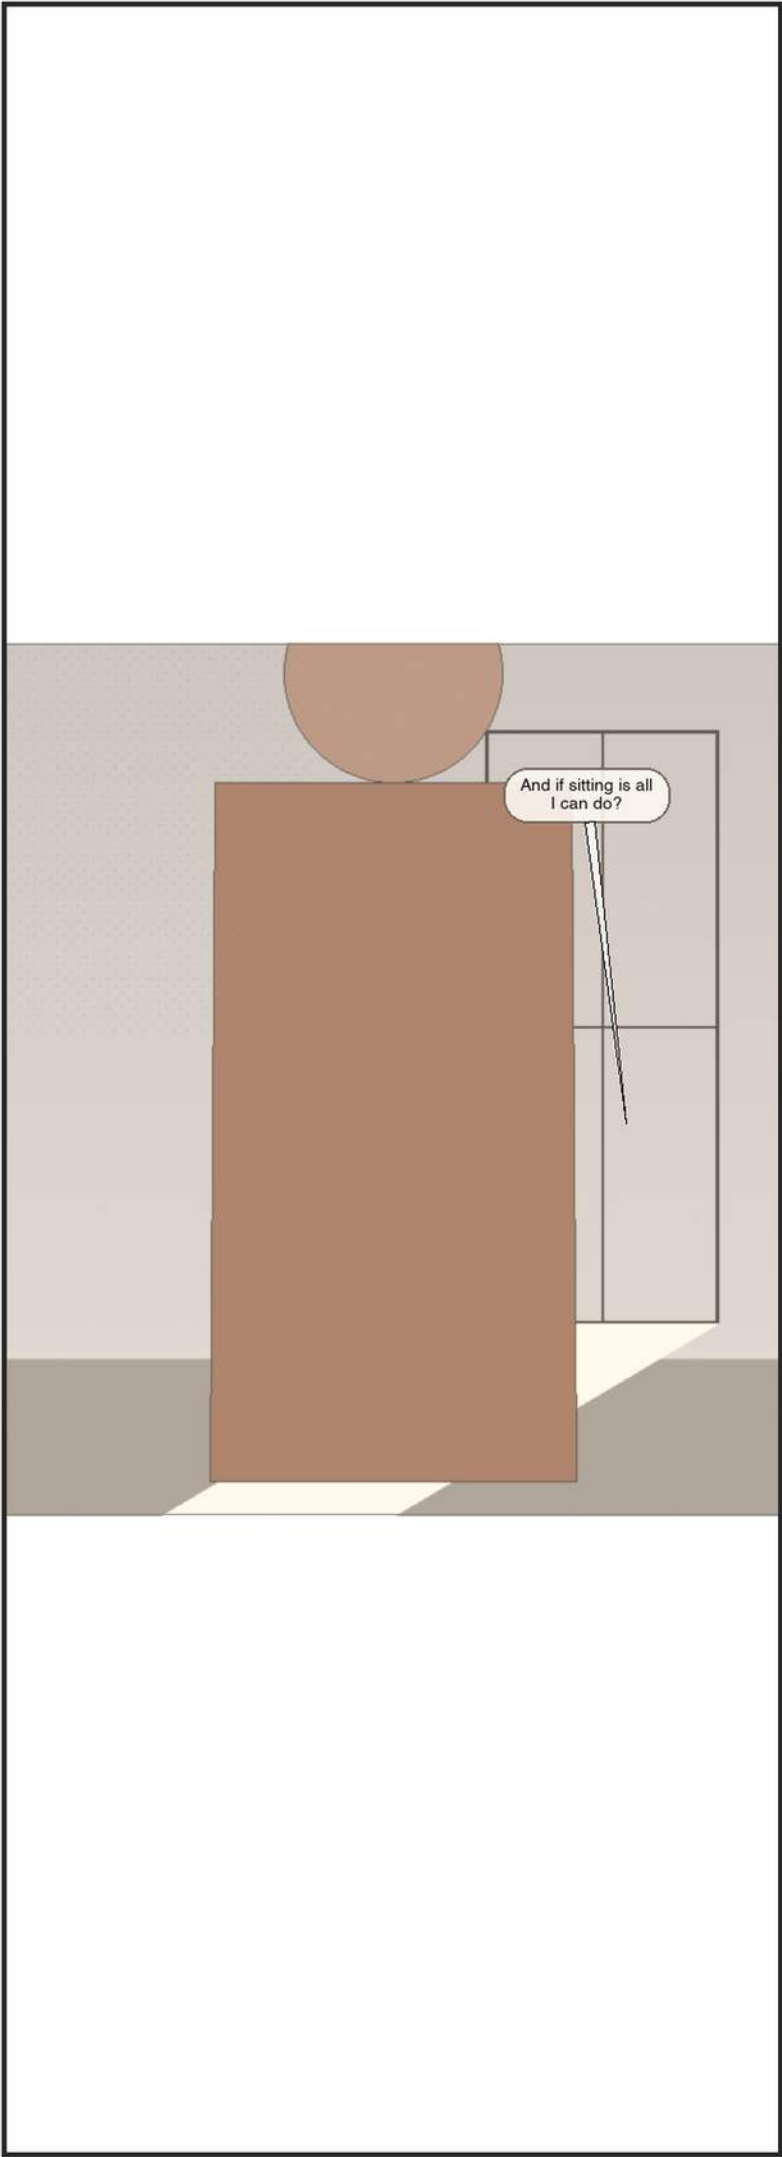

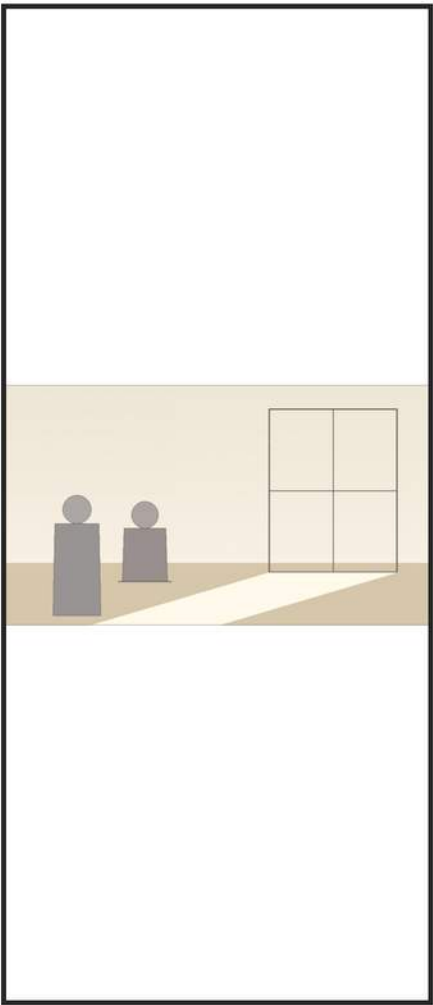

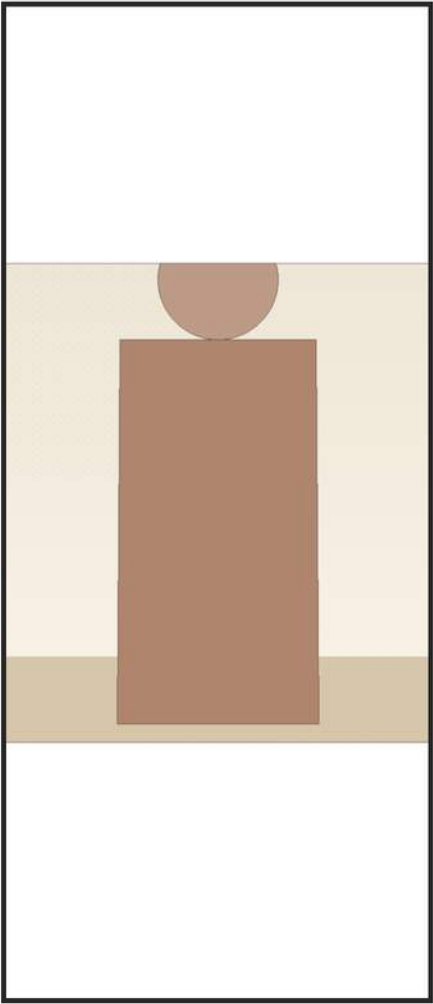

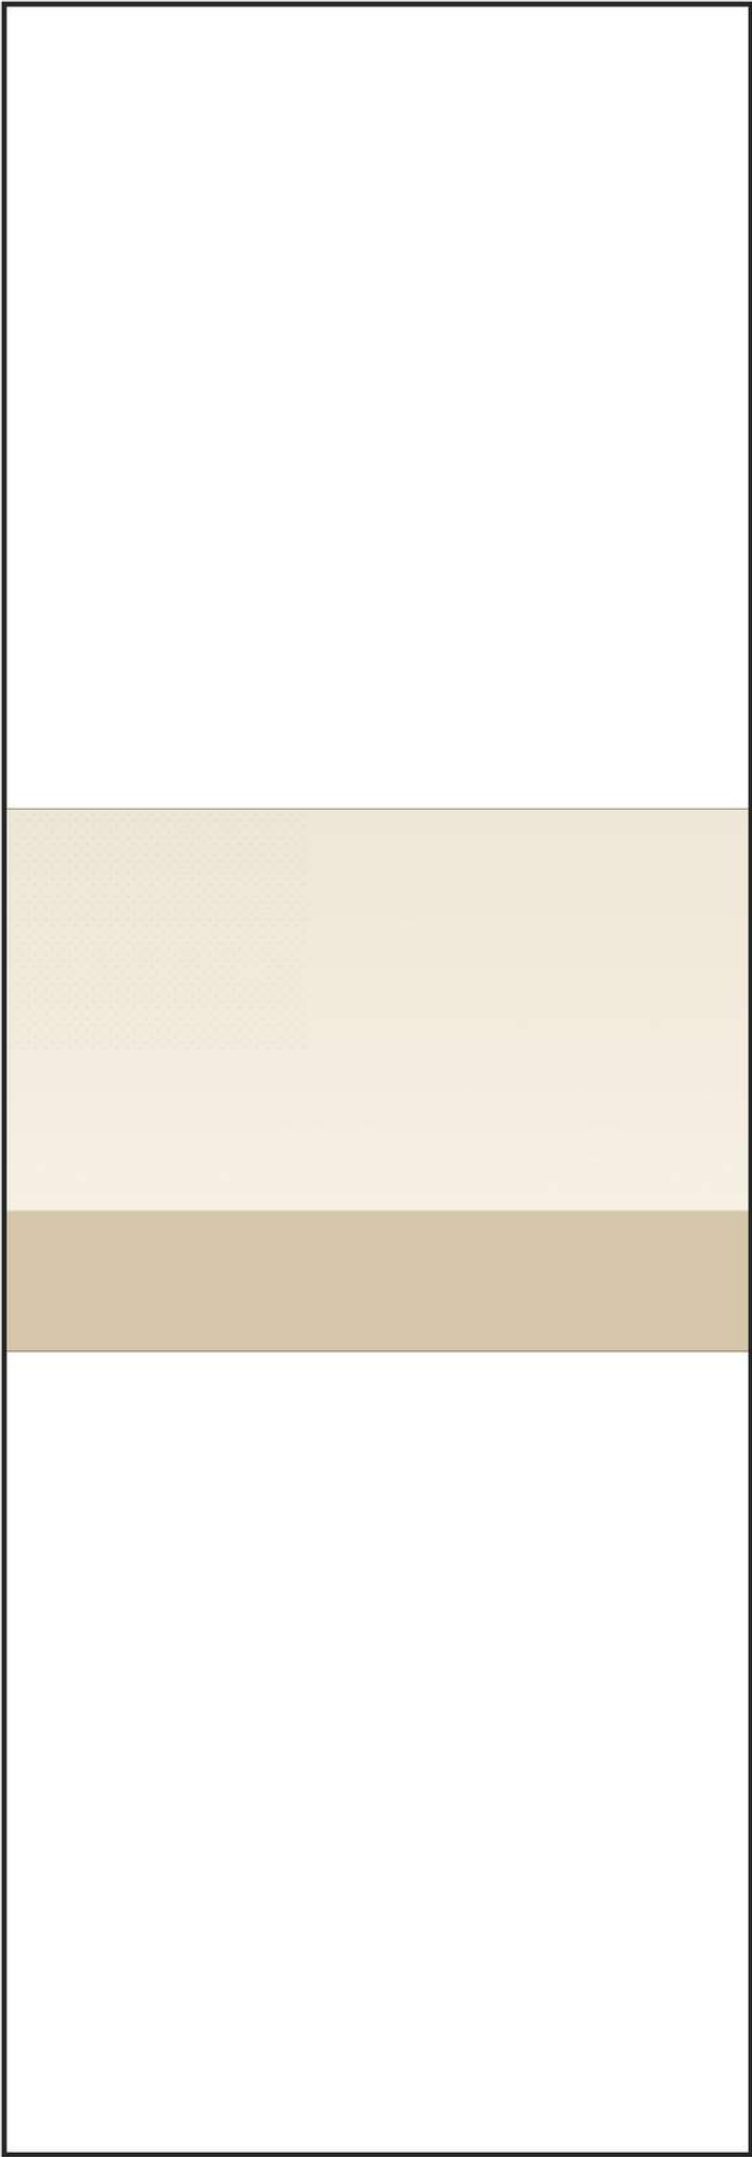

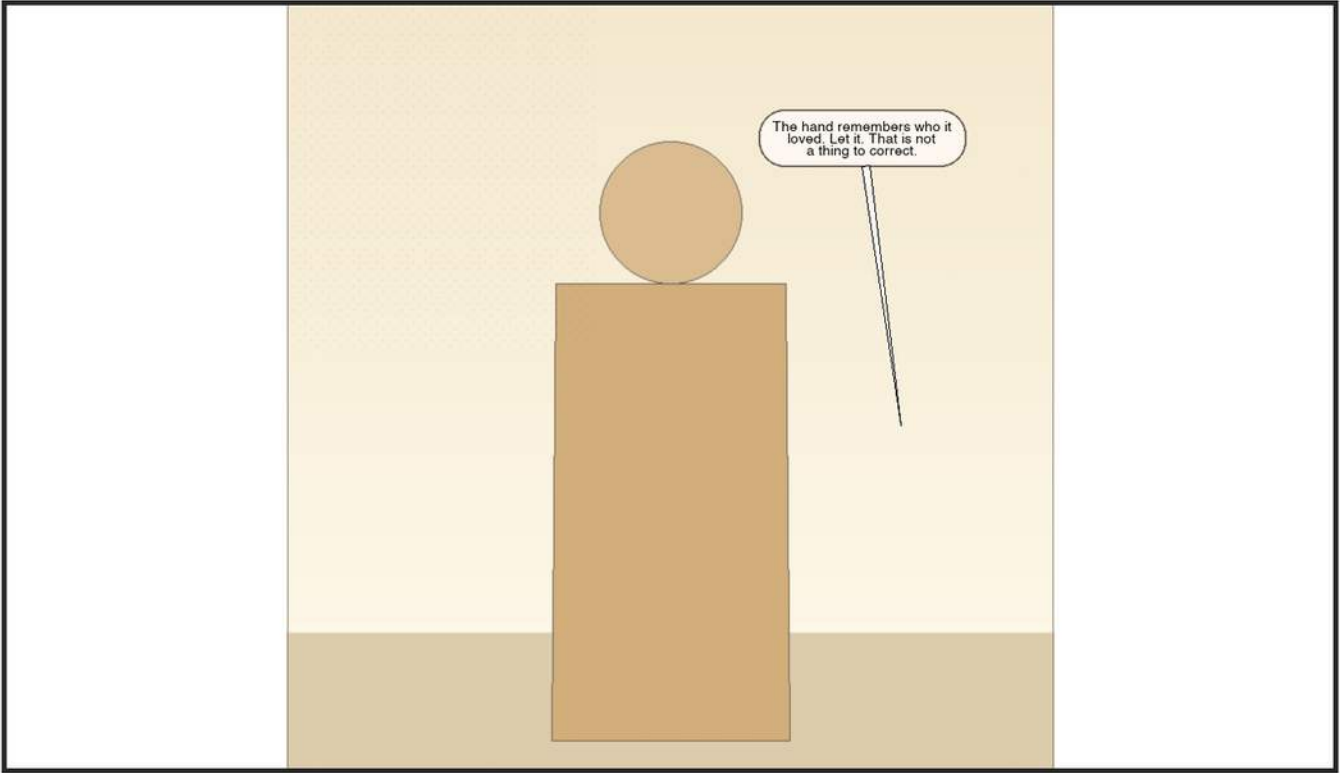

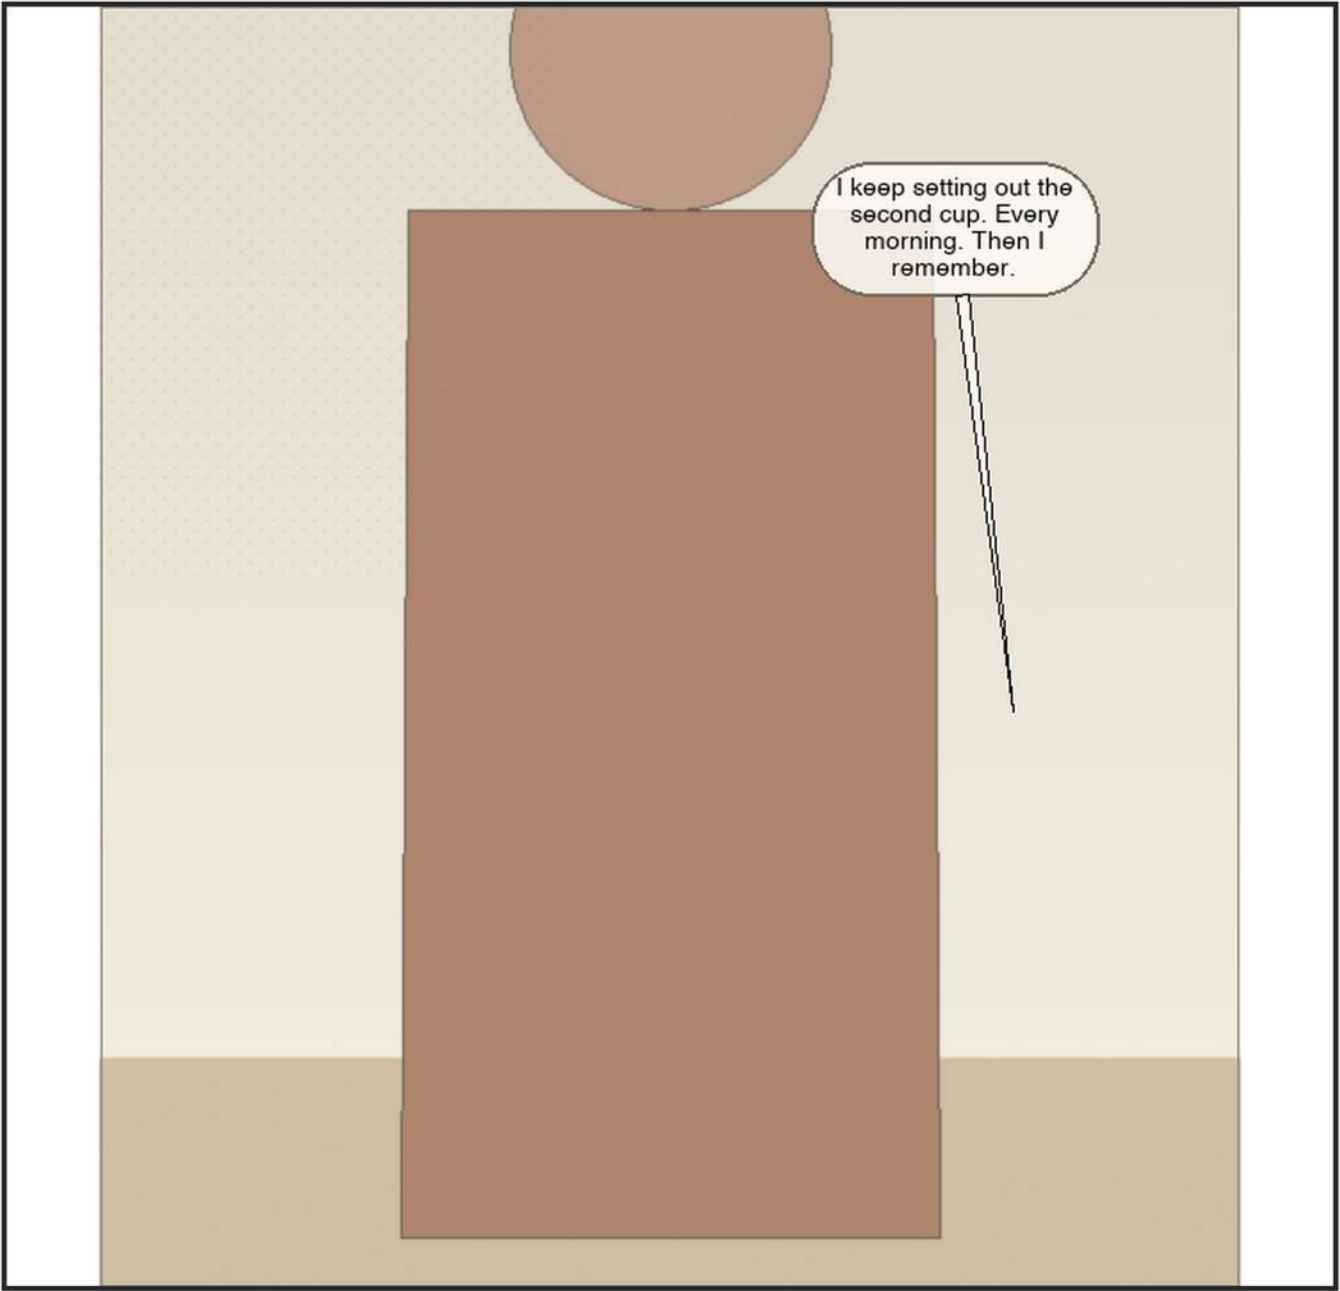

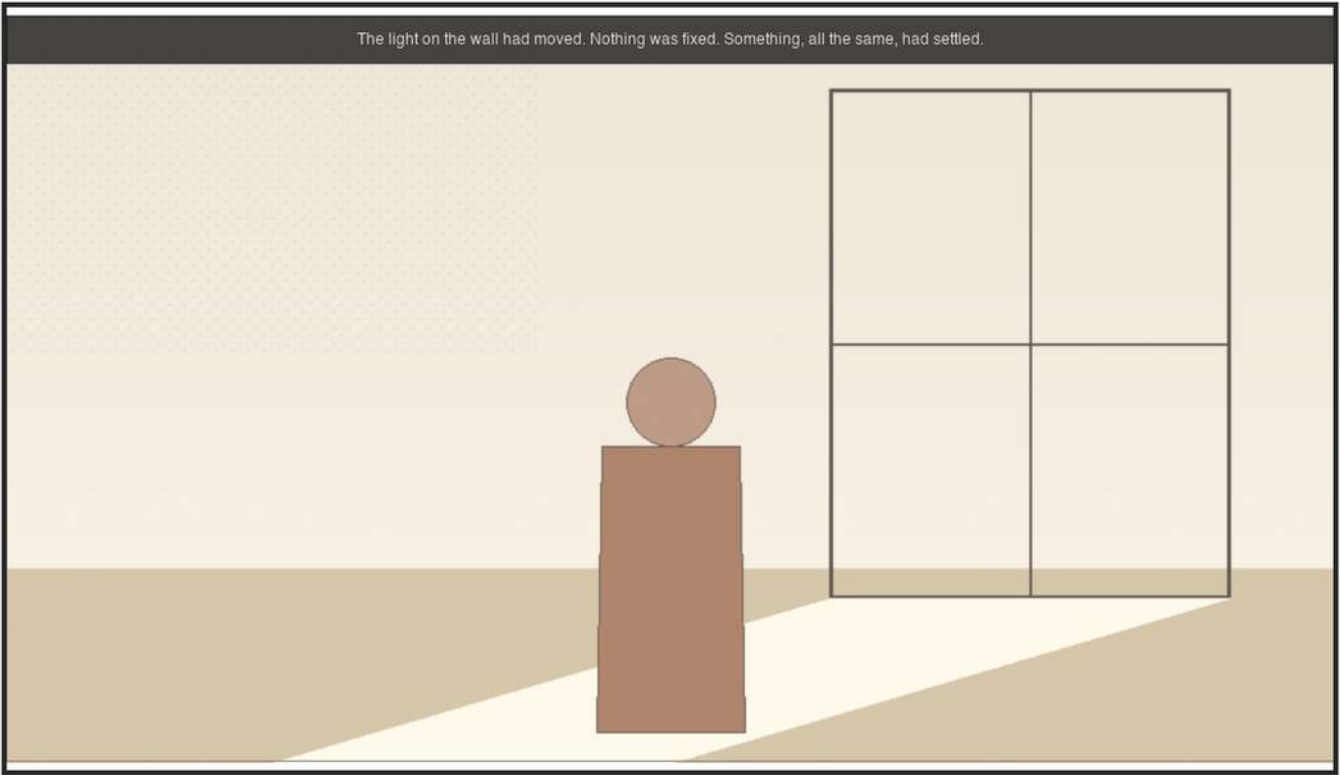

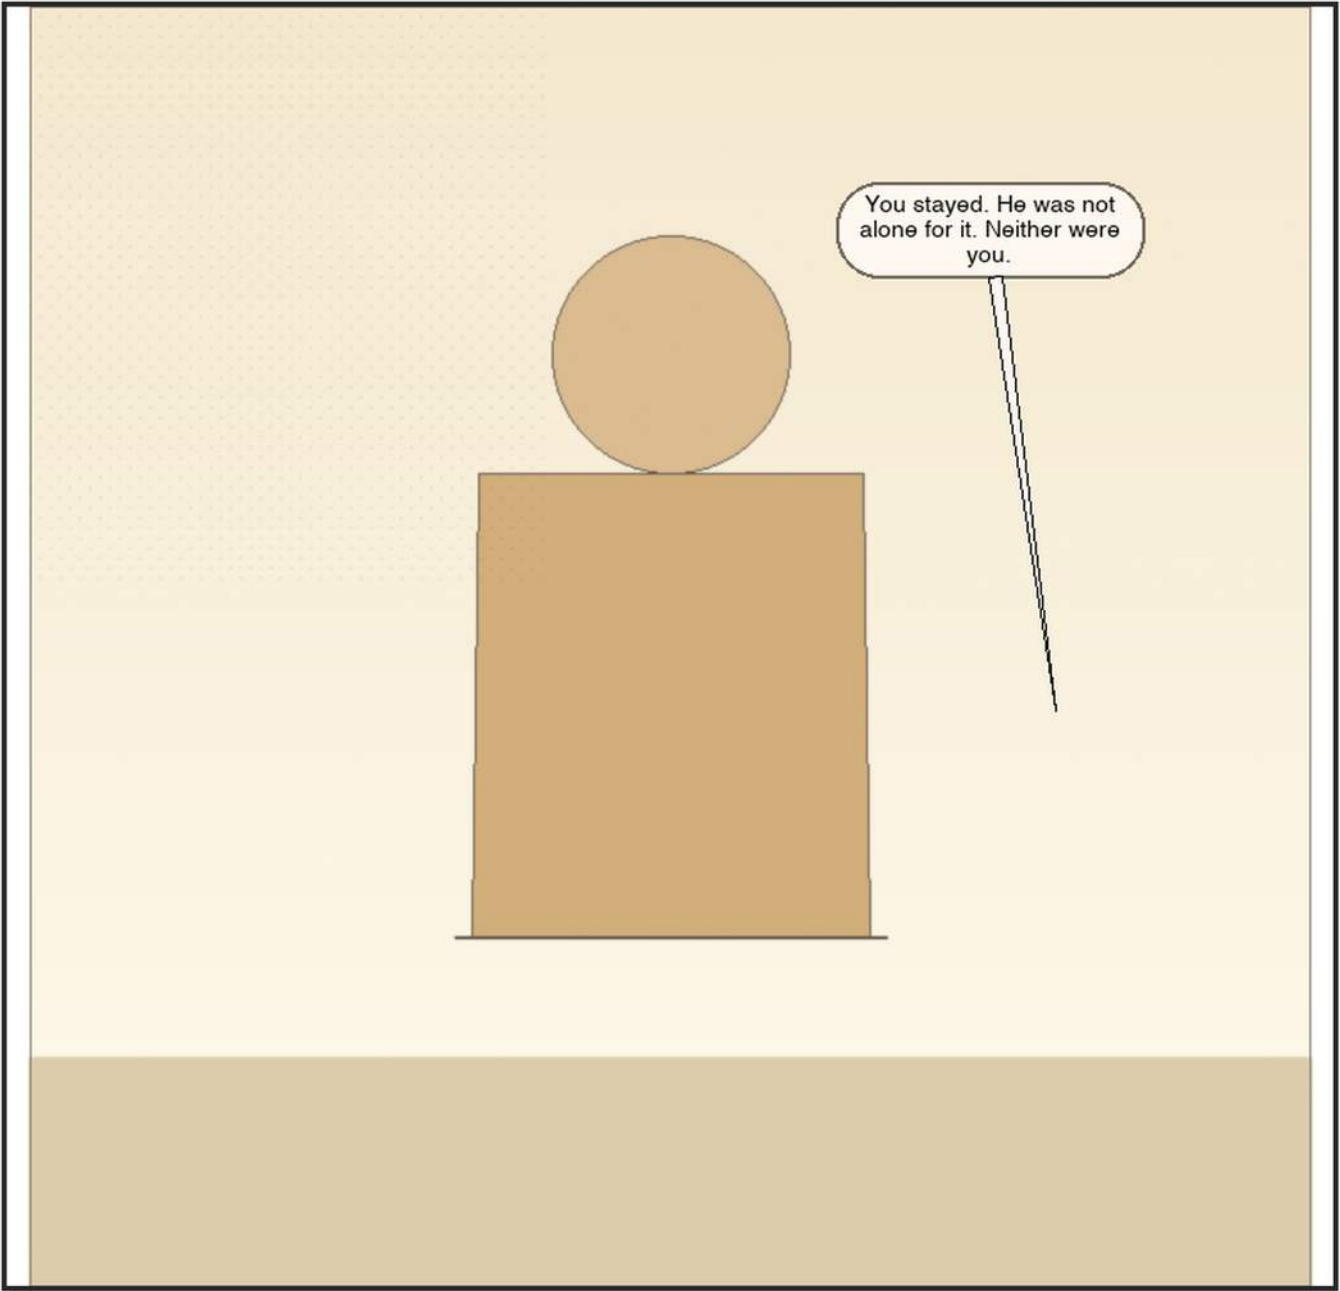

One cup, set down on purpose. The second place still there, just quieter now.

